Pacman faces toughest challenge in Sarangani

ABRIEL, SARANGANI—RISING HERO Manny "Pacman" Pacquiao may have won the May 10 election, but the challenges he faces as a politician are more formidable than any ring opponent.

The world champion made many campaign promises to the people of the impoverished southern province of Sarangani to get elected as their rep-

Why Quezon gov was denied Catholic burial

LUCENA, CITY—THE DENIAL OF Catholic burial rites for the late Quezon Gov. Rafael Naruna—last Nov. Francisco and "born again Christian"—was in accordance with canon law and not politically motivated, a church leader said here on Monday.

In a heavily delivered a day after Naruna's burial, Bishop Emilio Martini said: "We are not in a position to

Handlers of 'koala bear' still unknown

AFTER GETTING PUBLIC AT-tention, the so-called "koala bear"—alternatively called "Baba" and "koala bear"—has become a creature nobody seems to want to have anything to do with.

Malabon City Rep. Teodoro Locsin yesterday said the source of the video in which the "koala bear" claimed the May 10 national election were rigged was former Education Secretary Edgardo Jaraola.

Locsin said his information came from the staff of Speaker Progreso Negros.

In a phone interview, Locsin clarified that he sent, on his own, a heavily heated E-mail to the controversial video.

For his part, Negros said E-mail might have just received his own copy of the video after it was first shown in a media forum on May 15 and subsequently uploaded on the Internet video sharing site YouTube.

Visit shows US recognition of Aquino mandate

By Arando Doronila

THE NEW US AMBASSADOR TO the Philippines, Harry Thomas Jr., emphatically stamped Washington's recognition of the legitimacy of results of the May election with his Friday visit to the house of prospective president-elect Benigno Aquino III on Town Street, Quezon City.

The visit came even before any phone call from US President Barack Obama congratulating Aquino on his election. Obama was holding off sending congratulations until after the Philippine Congress has proclaimed the winners of the presidential and vice presidential contests.

ANALYSIS

Thomas' visit came at a time when numerous complaints were pouring into the Commission on Elections (Comelec) about irregularities in the polls and in the midst of a congressional investigation into allegations of electoral cheating.

Showing his hands curiously,

Thomas took pains to emphasize in a press conference that "as you have seen, we congratulated the Filipino people on this election. There were bumps and bruises, but that is to be expected. We (also) knew that in the United States, but the will of the Filipino people has been respected."

BEACH OUT AND READ Program embraces women of Aurora

By Elizabeth Laluna

Contributor

WELLNESS DOCTOR AUTHOR Christine Nordrup once wrote, "Reading is not for women."

Neither is it for those who can't read pop on their shirts, who cringe at the mention of copyrighted brand names on their necks, or who feel overwhelmed by the psychic, emotional and financial costs of raising productive citizens of the future.

The mothers of Aurora are anything but staid. In a province rich with abundant light, forest cover and beauty, with the rise of the Pacific a constant, especially among some-side towns, the pioneering Beach Out and Read (BOR) program that seeks to make books part of a healthy childhood is in place in some communities.

BOR is expanding its reach to address malnutrition and literacy skills of children below 6 years old, among other issues.

Aquino rejects uncle's bid to legalize 'jueteng'

By Gil C. Cabacungan Jr.

PROSPECTIVE PRESIDENT Benigno "Ninoy" Aquino III has brushed down a proposal by his uncle to legalize "jueteng," a numbers ticket that brings in millions of pesos in cash to operators and their protectors.

"Jueteng is against the law and we will enforce the law," Aquino said yesterday.

In a radio interview, former Tagaytay Rep. Jose "Tingoy" Cojuangco said he was all for the legalization of jueteng because his poor constituents had been complaining about the lack of a genuine and more affluent individuals who have confidence and have saving.

Cojuangco was accused of being a big-time jueteng lord after his sister, the late President Corason Aquino, took power in 1986.

He has denied the charges along with allegations that he and his relatives belonged to "Money week Inc.," which benefited from corrupt deals during the Aquino years.

Cojuangco noted that no formal charges had been filed in court against him or his kin.

Instead of legalizing jueteng, Aquino said he would allocate government resources to provide job opportunities in provinces where

Taiwan export surge good for OFWs

By Jonathan Buey

TAIPEI — Exports from Taiwan are enjoying a rise in demand in the labor market, thanks to a report that Taiwanese exports in March surpassed 44 percent compared to last year.

A spokesman for the Ministry of Economic Affairs (MEA) said the figures are a sign of recovery of the global economy, which could mean the demand for electronics products such as liquid crystal displays (LCDs) will rise.

The MEA report showed Taiwan's exports in March, up 41.66 percent compared to last year, according to the trade ministry.

Taiwan mainly exports, among other things, electronics, chemicals, textiles, iron and steel, machinery, consumer products, pharmaceuticals as well as grains, vegetables, livestock, poultry, fish and seafood.

MEA president Jackson Gao said Taiwan's exports had increased from the 2009 worldwide economic crisis that resulted in the decline of electronic manufacturing and assembly plants that led to the loss of about 5,000 workers.

Pacman faces toughest challenge in Sarangani situation in the House of Representatives, including support for his reelection.

"It's not whether he is a good man, he will build a hospital for Sarangani," Villarillo says. "It's not whether he is a good man, he will build a hospital for Sarangani."

That accountancy is widely recognized in the province where its population of more than 400,000 did not have a single hospital even in 1990.

Problems, promises

Pacman, 51, said he is currently doing the toughest job possible in a congressman would be "facilitating programs, education, healthcare and medical assistance" although he did not give more details.

He said, however, that his political base is all in short supply in the 4,500-square-kilometer province where more than 100,000 people live in poverty, according to national figures.

Even in Sarangani, the capital, many streets are just dirt roads and many houses are made of bamboo.

Pacman for a better life helped proposition to a health center over his Sarangani, a number of a general clinic that had been Sarangani for decades, in the country's last nationwide national election.

It was also election for the house who had no money but for the congressional seat of Sarangani General Santos City in 2007.

'They are all wrong'

"A lot of people are underestimating my capability to serve the people. I want to show them they are all wrong," Pacman said in several television interviews.

He insisted he could perform his duties as a congressman even while pursuing his law degree—originally over the American Bar Association for a long-term plan in Sarangani, according to reports that appeared in many a newspaper on Saturday when Pacman said to his supporters during the long political fight.

Pacman, who grew up in the town of General Santos City, said that his health problems made him more sympathetic to the needs of the people of Sarangani.

But it was his Sarangani was not just a poor, poor, commercial and economic and health care system that affected the to speed funds to build his Sarangani center.

Pacman, who has led by his Sarangani center, has been in the world's capital region and exhibit with earnings of $40 million, was wide support in Sarangani by people giving people jobs and health care.

Awake in cash

Alonso Sagor, 51, mayor of Malabon town, said he was a Sarangani leader for 15 years but he ended his Sarangani role after the Sarangani center was elected for.

"I thought it was a job but now, actually, he called me up and said 'Sagor, come down and join up your Sarangani' and from there it was," Sagor said.

He said, however, that his Sarangani center, which includes the Sarangani and Sarangani center, all come together to coordinate Pacman, according to the Sarangani.

Pacman's "Sarangani Change Movement" also provided campaign funds to many of his Sarangani for Sarangani, said Sagor and other officials.

"You have to join up with Sarangani and Sarangani for Sarangani," said Sagor and other officials.

Dinagat Island not a province, SC rules

By Dana T. Pascualigan

THE SUPREME COURT HAS AFFIRMED ITS DECISION nullifying a law that created the province of Dinagat Island in Mindanao and voiding the election of provincial officials during the 2007 polls.

In a May 17 final court decision, the high tribunal through Associate Justice Francisco Torres Jr. affirmed its constitutional ruling in 2003, which created the province of Dinagat Island.

Dinagat Island is located southwest of General and Braganza Island, General Santos City, Davao Region.

The Supreme Court said that the province of Dinagat Island failed to comply with the requirements of population and land area under the Local Government Code for it to become a separate province.

It had said that Dinagat Island did not meet the land area requirement of at least 1,000 square kilometers since RA 9233, which said that the province only contained "an approximate land area of 1,000 sq km."

The province also did not meet the population requirement of at least 200,000 inhabitants as certified by the National Statistics Office (NSO).

The high court said a census conducted by the NSO showed that Dinagat Island only had a population of 106,391 as of May 2005.

"In fact, RA 9233 failed to comply with either the territorial or the population requirement for the creation of the Province of Dinagat Island," the Supreme Court declared.

"The Commission clearly maintains that the creation of local government units must follow the criteria established in the Local Government Code. Any derogation of or deviation from the criteria prescribed in the Local Government Code is void."

Three members of Justice Bellos filed a separate opinion questioning the constitutionality and legality of the creation of a separate Dinagat Island province, claiming they deprived the people of Dinagat of their large chunk of its territory, increased revenue allocation and lost resources for the area.

The Dinagat provincial government hopes the SC would consider its ruling. Dinagat Island vice governor Manuel said a second election for representatives had been filed before the SC, with a report from President College of, Inspector Mindanao

Mitra asks SC for final dismissal of DQ case

By Dana T. Pascualigan

FRESH FROM HIS ELECTIONAL victory in the May 15 polls, Palawan Governor-elect Alan Binay has asked the Supreme Court to dismiss the case that disqualified him from running again for his old seat.

The three-judge constitutional panel, a five-page memorandum decision, through concurring opinion, Justice Sison, asked the high court to nullify the Commission on Elections' decision that disqualified him as gubernatorial candidate in the island province.

Mitra was proclaimed governor on May 16.

In the petition, Binay argued that the Commission erred in claiming that Mitra's declared tendency in a "small, sparsely populated town on the island of a fisherman" in Palawan would not qualify as a tendency to reelect a representative to his position.

"The tendency of the living conditions of the dwelling place is not required by law or jurisprudence to determine one's place or fulfillment of the duty of a representative," Binay said.

He also argued that the Commission's decision was "arbitrary and capricious" because it did not require that the Commission be given a chance to be heard.

The former Senate president said that even if Mitra had transferred his residence in Palawan from Manila to Palawan, he would not be disqualified from running again for his old seat.

Despite the Commission decision to disqualify him issued a few days before the election, Mitra was still able to run after the Commission had not issued a writ of habeas corpus to order him to stop running.

He also asked the high court to nullify the Commission's decision to disqualify him from running again for his old seat.

Stranded dolphin treated, released in Calapan waters

CITY OF CALAPAN—AUTHORITY and residents of Pangasinan City, Ilocos Norte, rescued a stranded dolphin that got stranded in the coastal village at around 4 a.m. Thursday according to the City Office of the Provincial Agriculture Office (CPO).

The dolphin, measuring two meters, was found by fishermen nearby. It had a slight wound on its dorsal fin and was found floating in the water. The dolphin was immediately moved to the nearest veterinary clinic.

Members of the Coast Guard, Police Marine Group, and City Veterinary Office gave first aid to the dolphin.

They guarded the dolphin from people who wanted to touch it out of curiosity or to take pictures.

Handlers of 'koala bear' still unknown

Enriza said he had been a copy of the video but stressed that it was just given to him by Manila Times columnist Rudy Cometas.

It was Cometas who then presented the video to the public. He did it on May 14 during the Catholic Church-organized media summit Catechism in Manila. Church officials later said they did not know such a video would be presented at the forum.

The following day the video was played in the report of a congressional hearing—prompted by tweets—on allegations of election irregularities.

The incident was said to be the video "Tobin" that Enriza called him a "koala bear" because of his appearance.

Enriza actually was not born but was adopted by his biological parents, which are said to be from Italy in Australia. They are supposed to be prominent attorneys, living in the 28 houses each day and looking on a complex basis.

Enriza is not very social and is, preferring to be alone. They are said to be families but often live in a small house in the city. In the video, the student who Enriza claimed he was involved in, was pointing and shouting to benefit from rumors in the presidential and congressional races.

"Tobin" is the "koala bear" president was evidence to support his allegations. The leader of the group.

Enriza's travels

In a phone interview, Enriza said Cometas called him up on May 17 and told him about the incident of "Tobin" in a video which supposedly would be aired in a meeting of the Catholic Bishops Conference of the Philippines (CBCP).

Enriza said Cometas told him that the incident was not mentioned but he (Enriza) was one of the candidates that the student was said to have "spurred" in to trigger the election.

Enriza was in congress from the first district of Marikina but lost in June 2016 by 22,000-plus votes.

"He (Cometas) gave me a copy of the video," Enriza said in the phone, adding that the copy was still in his possession and that he never gave it to anyone.

That may be, he said, he was surprised by Cometas' claim.

Notable

"My only concern was that (Enriza) mentioned my name and incident, I was surprised by the results of the election in Marikina," Enriza said.

He said a survey he had conducted showed that he would win 70 percent of the votes against his opponent's 20 percent. But the opposite happened and his opponent ended up winning 70 percent.

Enriza said the student was his claim would be "in a video" if the latter did not come out in the open to clarify and substantiate his allegations.

No motive

Meanwhile, yesterday Enriza said he had no motive.

"It would be better if you contact me so we can talk to each other," said Enriza, and deputy presidential spokesperson Gen. Ochoa said the Enriza had no motive to do the election.

"We have an assumed relationship with Enriza but we don't know him," said Enriza, and a former executive secretary in Enriza's house, he said on a call.

Enriza said he was confident Enriza could "give a satisfactory" answer to the claim.

Enriza was to also say the video was in a "Tobin" who Enriza said he had no motive to do the claim since Enriza was in "Tobin" and he was a working man. But everything is said to be the "koala bear."

Full disclosure Enriza mentioned Cometas said it was established that Enriza had no motive to do the election and Enriza's motive could not provide a "reasonable" explanation. Enriza said the video was his claim might be worth looking into.

Enriza was to also say the video was in a "Tobin" who Enriza said he had no motive to do the claim since Enriza was in "Tobin" and he was a working man. But everything is said to be the "koala bear."

DEATH OF INDIAN TRADER

Police suspect paid assassin

By Jovanita L. Andrus

HOMICIDE INVESTIGATORS are looking into the possibility that a professional hit man killed a 25-year-old Indian businessman who was shot dead in Manila yesterday morning.

UPCIS Richard Lambard of the Manila Police District homicide section said Rajinder Singh, of Singapore, Calabar City, died instantly from a single bullet shot into the back of his head by an unidentified person.

Lambard told the Inquirer that the killer could be a "professional" as he only needed one shot to kill the Indian trader.

Radial Road 79

The case investigation revealed that the shooting happened at about 10:30 a.m. along Radial 79 near the corner of the Capital Highway. Barangay 127 Zone 9 is the area.

Before the attack, Lambard carried Singh to his home where he was shot. Singh was found lying on the ground.

entering shop along Radial 79. He had just alighted from the motorcycle when a man approached him from behind, drew a 40-caliber pistol, and shot him in the back.

When the Indian fell, the person reportedly walked away calmly and fast. The victim's body was brought to the St. Harold General Hospital for autopsy and subsequent. Lambard said he had not yet identified witnesses who could identify the gunman. He called on him, saying he was claiming that they are not sure how he found the act of shooting.

Inter Milan claims Champions League

MILAN—CHIEF MILITARY SCORED twice as Inter Milan claimed its sixth UEFA Champions League final victory over Bayern Munich on Saturday to end a 45-year wait for its third title.

The Argentine-born forward in the 25th and 105th minutes at the San Siro Stadium in Italy led the team to victory 3-2 in a final that was held at night.

The match was a classic, with Inter Milan's attacking play and Bayern's defensive play. Inter Milan's attacking play was the key to their victory, as they scored three goals in the first half and two in the second half.

Amateur Spieth trails Fil-Aussie by two

IRVING, TEXAS—HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR Jordan Spieth shot a 3-under 67 to reach 6 under 204 at the Nike PGA Tour Classic on Saturday and a legitimate chance to win on his PGA Tour debut.

He is tied for seventh, six shots behind leader Jason Day.

Day, an Australian whose mother is Filipino, shot a three-under 67 to move to 13 under 196, two shots ahead of Spieth.

"I know the pros are going to be the toughest guys I've ever experienced in my life," said Spieth.

The 16-year-old Spieth on Friday became the sixth youngest player to make a US tour debut.

Spieth won a Nike tour high school last week. On Saturday he was playing below his big league gallery yet—after all, school was on, money of his friends could be there.

Playing partner Tom Price Jr., 30, a 66 to move to 100. When the round ended, they shook hands and the 30-year-old Price offered some words of wisdom.

"He's a wonderful young man," said Price. "He's got a lot of confidence and a lot of talent."

Firm to invest $100M ...

...to the Philippines (they want to get the green light).

There are several options available to Korean Express for installing the jet port project from here, says a Shell spokesman. One will be installing a new LAG export facility, building a pipeline to access capacity at Shell Esplanade Refinery's existing infrastructure at the Subic Bay, and selling into the Philippine market, the report stated.

The venture is partly dependent on how much gas is priced up. In current markets, not assumed that Korea will contribute to some 500,000 metric tons to some 600,000 metric tons in China and Korea, it added.

However, given the level of interest already shown by Korea to build a jet port, it is likely to attract attention from other oil companies that may well have complementary investments, such as Shell, the report said.

It was only in February this year that the government passed Korea law, by a 200-vote majority in the National Assembly, to allow Korean Express to build a jet port.

Sony Ericsson's best creation, yet

Text and photos by Charles E. Butler

THERE'S NO DENYING that the Xperia X10—Sony Ericsson's latest smartphone—has one of the sharpest screen displays. Everything, from small print to thumbnails to graphics, looks striking.

The fact that its screen display is a masterwork worth covers almost the entire face (and back) of the device, makes the X10 one more offering for those who like to immerse the Web, Twitter, chat, short phone, video or any other type of activity.

Because it is sleek and responsive thanks to Sony Ericsson's new decision to switch to Android operating system (version 1.6.0) and use Qualcomm's X26 video processing component.

Fast, precise

Indeed, reaction to finger touches is fast and precise, which is especially felt when using the virtual keyboard in both the horizontal and the vertical position (a full QWERTY keyboard appears on the screen in both cases).

Browsing through photos and contacts, Web page scrolling and other activities include peering the finger across the screen can be precise and quickly and accurately.

Indeed, the X10 has an multitouch function that would have made the device also more fun to use. But don't believe Sony Ericsson. It seems like Google, for an unknown reason, decided to keep this feature that allows pinch zooming and other gestures (possibly) off to create for a while.

But Sony Ericsson can't bring a new new design to the device.

The screen, which displays most text in small, neat messages, and social media sites in a flowy format that sometimes is stretched out of shape. There's also the multitouch that doesn't work for the touch screen.

Sony Ericsson has basically taken a lot of jobs in producing smart phones that really look like the X10 is an exception.

By a long way, the X10 is not the most expensive when compared to those of other manufacturers. The camera features a 10.1-megapixel, auto-focus function, smile detection, ability to recognize up to five faces in your pictures (the proper handling, image stabilization and a LED light that must be manually activated to properly focus your subject, but that does produce excellent results).

In addition to its pre-installed features, people in photos can be tagged (people in Facebook, which can prove to be useful in subsequent posting in Twitter).

The X10 comes with 1 GB of internal memory and an 8 GB micro-SD card, which would be enough for many downloaded applications and media files.

Indeed, the X10 is an excellent first look of Sony Ericsson as an Android-powered smartphone. While it lacks the screen and stylish smooth body, the X10 is best recommended for those who value Internet communication (especially social networking) and multimedia capabilities above all else.

New Aspire netbooks launched

By Jessica Horvath and Paolo G. Moschetti

WITH THE GROWING DEMAND for ultra-mobile computers that compete with tablets in terms of performance, the local unit of Taiwan-based Acer Inc. has launched two new products that promise to take the market by storm.

At a recent briefing, Acer Philippines introduced the Acer Aspire One 721 and Acer Aspire One 721. The new series of netbooks never before seen in devices this small and this affordable.

"With the entry of the new netbooks, the world has seen the evolution of the computer as indeed a truly revolutionary and every-day device to add people to their daily tasks, whether for the office or for home," the company said in a statement.

Powered by the AMD's new Athlon

II Duo Dual Mobile Processor, which packs a 1.7-gigahertz processing speed, the 10-inch screen Aspire One 721 model series is expected to be the most popular of all devices without any lock.

Other than its 10.1-inch display, the Aspire One 721 shares all its features with its smaller brother, the 721.

In the meantime, a great feature that Aspire One 721 has is an appearance to the Aspire's 250 gigabyte of storage space, which is more than enough for most users' collection of photos, videos and songs.

With the Acer Aspire One 721, the new Aspire One model can do everything most netbooks and even majority of full-sized notebooks cannot: play high-definition (HD) videos.

The Aspire's new feature allows for better graphic quality for smooth, crisp video streaming and high-definition playback of movies, Internet videos and HD.

Brand New Tools for an Agile Workforce

Unleaver gears up its workforce with Workflow from PLDT

Workflow is a powerful tool for agile workforce.

How come Unilever employees are such a happy bunch? When you walk into the friendly offices in Pasig and see the sprawling compound of factories, offices, product testing centers, and employee centers for the children of salaried employees, you'll be at least amazed.

The busy and colorful cubicles of the IT department, with everyone dressed casually and the cheerful demeanor of Country Head, Pamela Ferrel-Lopez, all demonstrate a keen sensitivity to smooth and stress employee interaction. The same tactic is used by Unilever to provide its workers with the latest technology and means of mobile communication. Just how PLDT gears them the freedom to work from home or in the office, or anywhere in between.

You never stop innovating. You never stop trying to seek customer satisfaction.

Unilever describes the long-standing relationship with PLDT: "We were actually the first generation users of Workflow. At that time the technology was still quite new. It was still the vintage mobile device we were using as a critical point-to-point. It was still just because of the point-to-point was still young."

"Now [PLDT], Pamela [Ferrel-Lopez] has seen Workflow through. It's definitely an improvement over the last technology of PLDT, because this is already running on mobile, high-speed Internet."

"The employees have important mobile connectivity in it. Being agile workers, we cannot always be at the office. I have an activity calendar going on, the latest ones or before a week I'm not all day at meetings, I don't have the luxury of being here in the office all the time."

Unilever recently acquired Workflow from PLDT to use as sales team, and although the majority of the units go for the sales force, there also work well for the rest of the company.

PLDT Workflow connects Unilever's team of agile workers, allowing them more productivity in and out of the office.

"All our people are already equipped with laptops and Workflow works very well for us. Agile working is not limited to people in sales. Unilever offices are spread out in different locations, with the headquarters in Pasig, and our on-ground business, factories, is in Hongkong, Peking, and another facility is in Canada. So anywhere we go, the option of connecting is always there."

No More Excuses, No More Deadlines

With Workflow, PLDT strives to provide two alternatives to clients the Unilever. The company also provides data and voice solutions, so much that PLDT has had 12 million Pasig search of flow specifically to serve their clients. Whenever Unilever employees find themselves, they can connect directly to the PLDT office, anywhere can get more work done, in less time.

On the continuing relationship with PLDT, Ferrel-Lopez says, "PLDT has been very aggressive in terms of customer support and offering the best package possible. PLDT and Unilever are both leaders in their respective industries. What makes us proud is both industry and understand customer needs. In this same way Unilever helps products to the ordinary Filipino every day. This is what PLDT is doing as well."

"What's most important," Ferrel-Lopez says, "You never stop innovating. You never stop trying to seek customer satisfaction."

Present during the contract signing are, from left: PLDT Head of Corporate Relationship Business, Rosalinda Pardo, VP & Head of Corporate Relationship Management, Pardo, VP & Head of Corporate Relationship Business, Pamela Ferrel-Lopez, Unilever Country Head of IT, Pamela Ferrel-Lopez, IT Service Delivery Manager, Rosalinda Pardo, and IT Contract Manager, Lito Cruz.

BIR braces for drop in H2 tax collection

Tax relief laws scheduled to take effect

By Michelle V. Rana

THE BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE is preparing for the possible drop in tax collection in the second half as several laws providing tax relief come into effect.

BIR Commissioner Eric Tan Yuen said that while the tax bureau has been able to consistently meet its monthly collection targets since December last year, it expects a rough second half given the full impact of recently passed laws granting tax exemptions.

These include the First Income Exemption Law (FIEL), the Personal Equity and Retirement Act (PERA) and the law exempting sales of used cars from the value-added tax (VAT).

"I'm assuming the tax collection goal for the second half will be to acknowledge the fact that there are a lot of tax exemptions and the amounts are expected to be big," Tan Yuen said.

BIR has provided guidelines for the collection of BIR fees, which collect a part of income tax to be used for tax administration.

The government has granted tax discounts to BIR fees to encourage investments in real estate.

The PERA, meanwhile, encourages individuals to invest in their retirement by granting tax incentives on savings from money placed in PERA accounts.

These taxable bank deposits will be with discount interest rate.

Meanwhile, the VAT law on sales of used cars is expected to reduce sales tax on the sales of used cars and regulations on it.

Tan Yuen said that the government should allocate its growth in that year to income of individuals and businesses would come from the tax incentives on savings from money placed in PERA accounts.

For the second half, the BIR is expected to collect P440.2 billion for the entire year, if it is directed to generate P430.4 billion.

BPO firms out to get another $1M in contracts

By April 1, 10

SOME OF THE COUNTRY'S BUSINESS process outsourcing firms are seeking to bag another $1 million worth of deals at this year's Global Outsourcing Conference, following last year's strong performance.

The Philippine delegation last year bagged more than $1 million in deals and contracts at the time event, according to the Business Process Outsourcing Association of the Philippines. The local firms include major players of this year's 25th annual BPO delegation.

Just like last year, the Philippines will have a pavilion at the conference floor in Charlotte to exhibit the country's BPO services.

The local delegation will likewise hold a Philippine information technology BPO forum to provide more information with a deeper insight into the local industry and market than the Philippines is in place to go to IT and BPO services.

Among this year's exhibitors are Delight Corp., Answer Philippines, Promote Technologies Corp., Telesales Solutions Philippines Inc., American Data Exchange Corp., Orange Business Process Solutions Inc., iVista, Broadband Technology Solutions International, Global Telecom Inc., and Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co.

Other attendees will include on May 28-29 of the Sydney Convention and Exhibition Center.

RP coffee industry seeks help

By Rex T. Chibon

THE INDIAN COFFEE BOARD (ICB), AN eight-year-old government organization helping revive the country's coffee industry, needs modern equipment and strong built to get to different coffee-growing areas.

The move is meant to improve the quality of coffee and allow farmers to get higher income from their coffee production.

Youth pledge to help Church in conserving her cultural patrimony

By JIMMY L. LACOR

A group of young people from the Archdiocese of Manila, including students and young professionals, have pledged to help the Church in conserving her cultural patrimony.

The group, known as the Young People's Cultural Heritage Project (YCHP), was formed during a recent meeting of the National Council of the Archdiocese of Manila (NCAM) in Manila. The group's mission is to identify, document, and preserve the cultural heritage of the Church in the Philippines. The group will be working on a project to identify and document the cultural heritage of the Church in the Philippines, with a focus on the role of the Church in the development of the country's culture.
